

BRASENOSE COLLEGE OXFORD

6-HOUR STIPENDIARY LECTURESHIP IN POLITICS

FURTHER PARTICULARS

The Appointment

Applications are invited for a 12-month Fixed-Term Stipendiary Lectureship in Politics at Brasenose College, Oxford. The post is tenable from 1 October 2013 (finishing date: 30th September 2014). This is a teaching-only post and the salary scale will be within the range £12,383 to £13,927 per annum (current rates), plus allowances, according to qualifications and experience. The appointee will have the option of becoming or remaining a member of the Universities Superannuation Scheme (USS).

This is a College-only fixed-term post to provide transitional duties pending the release of a University Lectureship in Politics (International Relations). Consequently, candidates must be available at the specified start date. The post is well-suited to an early career academic seeking to combine teaching with post-doctoral research attached to a University Department. The salary range will require candidates to demonstrate that they possess the right to work in the UK since the salary will not meet the UKBA's minimum threshold to enable a Tier 2 Visa appointment.

Brasenose College

Brasenose College is one of the older foundations in the University of Oxford. Across all years, there are approximately 375 undergraduates and 220 graduates. At the start of the 2012-13 Academic Year, the College's senior members comprised the Principal, 61 Fellows (43 of whom constitute the Governing Body), and 28 College Lecturers. Brasenose values academic excellence above all other considerations and is concerned to foster research as well as high-quality teaching. The college has a substantial library, mainly for undergraduate use, and well-developed IT provision. Further information about the College can be found at www.bnc.ox.ac.uk.

Brasenose has a strong tradition in Politics. The College is in the process of appointing a University Lectureship in Comparative Government (the successful candidate is expected to be in post by October 1st). Professor Monica Toft is a member of the Blavatnik School of Government and a Supernumerary Fellow of the College. Brasenose currently admits 9 students a year to read Philosophy, Politics, and Economics (PPE) and typically admits 1 student to read History and Politics. In addition, the College has a significant number of graduate students enrolled on Taught Masters courses or who are in the process of completing doctoral degrees in Politics.

Duties

The person appointed will be expected to be able to teach the International Relations core paper (212) and any other Final Honour School papers that fall within their area of expertise. Preference may be given to candidates able to contribute to the institutions component of the politics Prelim syllabus. See <http://www.ppe.ox.ac.uk/index.php/course-content-politics> for outlines of these papers. Detailed reading lists are available, via the Weblearn system, from <http://www.politics.ox.ac.uk/index.php/teaching/teaching.html>. (For candidates without access to Weblearn, copies of specific syllabi from the list at <http://www.ppe.ox.ac.uk/index.php/course-content-politics> are available on application from the college's Academic Administrator [henry.jestico@bnc.ox.ac.uk].) Teaching duties will include both academic tutorials and revision classes for students approaching preliminary and final examinations.

The tutorial stint will average 6 hours per week during full term. A weighting system determines the amount of contact time needed to meet stint. For Tutorials given to one student the weight is 1, for two students it is 1.25, and for three or more students the weight is 1.5. Higher weightings are applicable for class teaching (up to 2.59 for groups of 15 students) but it is envisaged that most of the tutorial teaching for Politics will be provided to groups of up to 3 students. Consequently, a stint of 6 annualised hours can normally be expected to range between 6 and 4 contact hours per week over three eight-week Terms.

Teaching will principally be to undergraduates of Brasenose College, but some exchange of teaching with colleagues in other colleges may be possible, and is often desirable in order to enable undergraduates to be taught by experts in their range of options.

The Stipendiary Lecturer will undertake all the normal duties of an undergraduate tutor, including mentoring and pastoral oversight, writing references, writing termly reports, attending end of term collections, setting and marking college exams and providing feedback, organising teaching timetables, organising and attending start of term meetings, organising and attending student functions and relevant college events.

The undergraduate admissions duties associated with the post are: organisation and attendance at College open days and assistance with the development of other outreach material and processes, communication with potential candidates if required, preparation for the annual admission process, including analysis of candidates and attendance of meetings, preparing interview timetables, and participating in interviews.

Brasenose encourages its College Lecturers to participate in annual personal development planning meetings. In addition, the College offers undergraduates the opportunity to give feedback on Tutorial and class teaching each year. The current system consists of Academic Feedback Sessions, whereby groups of students studying the same subject meet in a structured session.

Selection Criteria

The selection criteria for the post are:

1. A high quality of education and training at first-degree and postgraduate level in the appropriate areas of philosophy. A doctorate in a relevant subject is preferred but applicants studying for a doctorate will be considered who are close to completion
3. Evidence of an ability to provide a high standard of tutorial teaching across a range of student abilities in relevant areas of philosophy, and of a willingness to share in the supervision of the undergraduates' academic studies.
3. Evidence of an ability and willingness to participate in the full range of pastoral, administrative and similar duties required in the post.

Remuneration

Stipend. The salary scale will be within the range £12,383 to £13,927 per annum (current rates), plus allowances, according to qualifications and experience. The figure will be adjusted in line with any reviews of the University's recommended salary scale for University Lecturers that may occur during the tenure of the post.

Allowances. The Stipendiary Lecturer will be entitled to five lunches or dinners at common table at Brasenose, when the College kitchens are open during Term and the vacations. The College will provide a Hospitality Budget (currently £133 p.a.) and an Academic Budget (currently £138 p.a.)
