

BRASENOSE COLLEGE, UNIVERSITY OF OXFORD10-HOUR STIPENDIARY LECTURER IN ENGLISH
FURTHER PARTICULARS*The Appointment

Applications are invited for a Stipendiary Lecturer in English at Brasenose College, Oxford. The post is tenable from 1st October 2024 until 31st March 2025. This is a teaching-only post and the salary scale will be within the range of £25,406 - £28,305 per annum, plus allowances, according to qualifications and experience. Note that this is not a full-time role and the salary reflects this. The appointee will have the option of becoming or remaining a member of the Universities Superannuation Scheme (USS).

The salary range will require candidates to demonstrate that they possess the right to work in the UK since the salary will not meet the UKBA's minimum threshold to enable a Skilled Worker Visa appointment. Since this is a teaching-only position, candidates must also be available to start by the specified start date.

Brasenose College

Brasenose College is one of the older foundations in the University of Oxford. Across all years within the College, there are approximately 375 undergraduates and 250 graduates. The College's senior members comprise the Principal, Fellows (43 of whom constitute the Governing Body), and College Lecturers. Brasenose's paramount objective is the pursuit of academic excellence for the public benefit and is concerned to foster research as well as high-quality teaching. The College has a substantial library, mainly for undergraduate use, and well-developed IT provision. Further information about the College can be found at www.bnc.ox.ac.uk.

The College has a reputation for being open and friendly and we are keen to be inclusive, encouraging applicants from a diverse range of backgrounds. As a Stipendiary Lecturer, you will be welcomed into the Brasenose community, and through our various events, and especially over lunch (which is very popular and well-attended), you would have the chance to interact with a broad range of other academics across many different disciplines. The appointment offers scope to get as involved in the social and intellectual life of the College as you wish. Throughout the year, there are also opportunities to invite guests – a hospitality allowance (detailed below) encourages academics to do this. Brasenose also seeks to be a family-friendly employer and wherever possible will consider a flexible approach to work.

Brasenose admits 7 students per year to study English plus up to two further students studying English with either Classics or Modern Languages. The college also admits graduate students of high caliber studying for the M.Sc. and D.Phil. in English Literature.

Duties

The person appointed will co-ordinate with Prof Sos Eltis and Prof Simon Palfrey to teach undergraduates papers FHS 2 (Shakespeare), 3 (1550-1660) and 4 (1660-1760), and to contribute as appropriate to supervising undergraduate dissertations.

A weighting system moderates the amount of contact time needed to fulfil the teaching obligation. For Tutorials given to one student the weight is 1, for two students it is 1.25, and for three or more students the weight is 1.5. As far as possible, the tutorial teaching will be provided to pairs of students. Consequently, teaching hours can normally be expected to range between 6.67 and 10 contact hours per week over three eight-week Terms but may exceed this slightly depending on the pattern of teaching.

Teaching will principally be to undergraduates of Brasenose College, but some exchange of teaching with colleagues in other colleges may be possible, and is often desirable in order to enable undergraduates to be taught by experts in their range of options.

The Stipendiary Lecturer will work alongside Prof Sos Eltis and other academic staff, including Dr Eleanor Parker and Dr Agota Marton. They will be expected to play an active part in the life of the College, sharing in the general responsibilities towards Politics teaching. They will undertake all the normal duties of an undergraduate tutor, including mentoring and pastoral oversight, writing references, writing termly reports, attending end of term collections, setting and marking College exams and providing feedback, and organising and attending relevant start of term meetings.

The undergraduate admissions duties associated with the post are: participation in College open days; communication with potential candidates if required; preparation for the annual admission process, including analysis of candidates and attendance of meetings, and participating in interviews.

Brasenose encourages its College Lecturers to participate in annual personal development planning meetings. In addition, the College offers undergraduates the opportunity to give feedback on Tutorial and class teaching each year. The current system consists of termly individual electronic feedback.

Selection Criteria

The selection criteria for the post are:

1. A high quality of education and training at first-degree and postgraduate level in the appropriate areas of English (essential). A doctorate in subject is preferred but applicants studying for a doctorate in the subject who are close to completion will be considered.
2. It is essential that the successful candidate has experience of teaching material pertinent to the 3 FHS papers. The CV and covering letter should provide full details of relevant teaching experience.

It should be noted that the expectation is that the entire period of each University Term of this Lecturership will be worked. Should exceptional circumstances arise, one month's notice may be given by either party, or such longer notice as is required by statute. A letter of resignation should be addressed to the Senior Tutor.

The College reserves the right to end employment without notice or payment in lieu of notice in cases of summary dismissal on grounds of gross misconduct.

Right to Work

To comply with UK employment legislation the successful candidate will be required to provide documentary evidence of his or her eligibility for employment before taking up the post.
